

A Digital in Public Event

#robinhoodfail: The Ethics of Public Scholarship and the Digital Liberal Arts

Dr. Moya Bailey

Assistant Professor Department of Cultures, Societies, and Global Studies
&
Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Northeastern University

Thursday, April 20th JRC 101, 7:30 pm

As a member of a collective team working to make feminist interventions into digital humanities scholarship, Dr. Bailey and her team members tried to use grant money to help make the internet safer for women and people of color. They failed. In this talk, Dr. Bailey will point out the ways they failed, what they would do differently, and how other researchers may be more accountable to communities outside the academy in the future.

Digital Liberal Arts Collaborative

and the Gender, Women's, and Sexuality Studies Program