

The Politics of Human Thriving

After Man(ifestos): The Android Goddess Declaration

Tuesday, February 27, 2018
Joe Rosenfield '25 Center, Room 101
7:30 p.m.

Micha Cárdenas

Asst. Professor of Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences and Interactive Media Design, University of Washington Bothell

Algorithms define possibilities of life and death in the contemporary world. Through popular media examples, as well as examples from her own practice-based research, Professor Micha Cárdenas will offer examples of algorithms as analytic and practical tools for art and activism as interdisciplinary scholarship. Building on materialist feminism, trans of color poetics and queer of color critique, Cárdenas suggests new operations for thought and action made available by digital media.
