

GRINNELL AND YOU

A BULLETIN OF INFORMATION FOR THE ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF GRINNELL COLLEGE

MANY FORMS OF ATHLETICS FOR GRINNELL WOMEN

More than 300 Grinnell women take part in the many athletic activities which are offered by the Women's physical education department.

The long list of sports naturally falls into three divisions according to the season of the year. In the fall the women are given their choice of volleyball, tennis, hiking, bicycle riding, and horse-back riding.

Volleyball is organized into teams, and the scheduled games are played regularly. Another feature of fall work is the tennis tournament, which attracts a large list of entries and is the source of considerable rivalry.

Interest centers in basketball during the winter season when outdoor work is impossible. Class basketball teams are organized and a tournament held to determine the class championship. An added incentive is offered in this sport by the award of a point to those making the first and second teams.

Sports which are offered in the fall are repeated in the spring, with the addition of baseball and track. Four baseball teams are organized and a championship series is scheduled. A national telegraphic meet for women track athletes is a stimulus for endeavor in this sport.

Honors for proficiency in athletics are awarded in the form of Honor "G" pins, monograms, sweaters, and blankets. For the girl who is athletically inclined Grinnell College offers every opportunity for the expression and development of her ability, and Grinnell graduates are in demand for supervision of physical training, playground work, and recreation.

This issue of GRINNELL AND YOU is from GRINNELL to YOU—written by students, to be read by future students. It is to acquaint you with our college and our college life as fully and as intimately as the printed page permits.

It is patently impossible to picture in detail the multitude of activities that put zest and zipper into the college year, to extol the merits of a nationally reputed faculty, to describe the best dormitory system in America, or to ensnare that ethereal reality, — the Grinnell Spirit — all in eight pages. But we present this brief and kaleidoscopic picture of Grinnell life in the hope that here and there you may catch a glimpse which will be of interest to you—which may bring you to know and love Grinnell as we do.

—Grinnell Chapter, Sigma Delta Chi.

SMALL CLASSES; INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION.

Perhaps one of the most potent factors in maintaining the high standing of Grinnell is the demand made in scholastic requirements. Because the enrollment has been limited it has been possible to keep the size of the classes so small as to bring every student into personal contact with the instructor, and to meet the particular needs of each individual. The fact that Grinnell was the first college in Iowa to receive a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa is evidence of her national scholastic standing.

GRINNELL TRAINS MEN FOR JOURNALISM.

Grinnell's training for journalism considers the broad preparation that the profession requires, so that her men may be reporters that know the significance of what they write and may develop into editors. Practical journalists demand such men for they can rely upon their work and profit by their knowledge of social and economic forces.

Grinnell's training emphasizes two things: the one to build knowledge, the other to develop practical efficiency. The courses in English, history, economics, sociology, and political science teach the complex organization of our modern social life. The course in journalism presents the forms in which the happenings of the world may be quickly and truthfully presented to the public. A journalist in training needs knowledge of life. He needs constant practice in writing. He needs practical newspaper work.

Grinnell students write news and edit copy, secure advertising and publish the Scarlet and Black. They write sketches and humor for the Malteaser. They organize the record of the year's work and put it in attractive pictorial form for the Cyclone. They publish creative writing in Verse and Fiction. Those who intend to enter journalism as a profession have the valuable association with others who have the same aims in Sigma Delta Chi, the professional and national journalistic fraternity.

Do the College Men Like the Quad Occupants?

*The "poet men of bygone days"
Sang pleasing songs of winsome maids,
Whose hearts were won by Lochinvars
Gaily galloping o'er the glades.*

*Our college men go to the Quad,
To win the lady of their choice:
A lady fair of charming ways,
Of pleasing face, of mellow voice.*

*You know the girl the Dormites want,
Believe me, brother, you can tell:
The type of girl that men demand

The Grinnell girl commands respect.

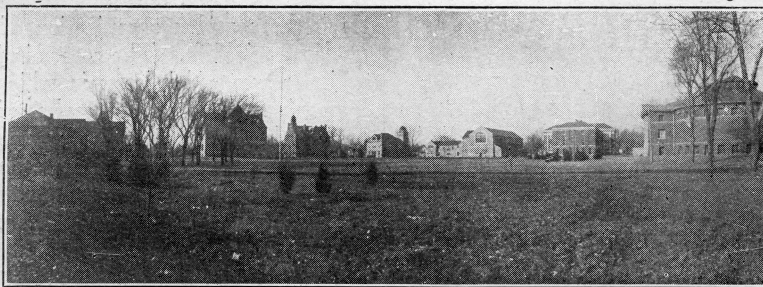

She is not a frivolous type, although always ready for a good time: not a flapper, although always a good sport: not a mere fluff, although she is beautiful.

She does not "throw a wicked line," although she can carry her end of the conversation. She comes to Grinnell for something more than a mere "good time." She learns the arts, the sciences, and the thoughts of the masters. She carries herself as "to the manner born".

And when she finishes her college course, she can discuss intelligently the current topics of the day; she can conduct herself as a true hostess.

Yes, the Dormitory appreciates the Quad and what it stands for—the highest type of womanhood,
The Grinnell Woman. —A DORM-ITE.

A PORTION OF THE COLLEGE CAMPUS

Grinnell College is the oldest college west of the Mississippi River, and the first co-educational college in this section of the United States. For nearly eighty years it has held an enviable reputation among the universities and colleges of the entire country.

Originally founded as "Iowa College" at Davenport in 1846, it was moved to Grinnell shortly after the founding of the town. Iowa College and Grinnell grew up together, and for well on to a century have had their fortunes intertwined.

Twice disaster has wiped out the college, only to cause a newer and greater Grinnell to rise from the ruins. First came a great fire, wiping out in a single day what it had taken years to build. When the college was rebuilt, and its fame had grown, extending from coast to coast, a tornado came in 1882. Again came the task of rebuilding.

Since that time, the growth of Grinnell has been steady. Starting with but two buildings, she has now twenty-six, most of them modern structures of the latest type of architecture, grouped according to a well-organized plan around the central campus.

Her then meagre faculty has increased in size until today it consists of more than a hundred members of an internationally recognized group of experts in special lines. Since 1907 the size of the faculty has doubled.

COMPLETE SELF-GOVERNMENT BY STUDENTS.

Grinnell has at last achieved complete self-government for the men as well as for the women. The Women's Self Government League has long been a part of Grinnell. Every woman in college is a member of it. Through its executive board it directs the regulation of matters concerning the general conduct of the women in the women's residence halls. The presidency of the League Board is considered the highest honor that can come to a woman in school.

Actual self-government for the men of Grinnell has been achieved through the adoption of a constitution last January creating a Student Court, and reorganizing the old Men's Senate. The Court interprets and administers the rules of the Senate, and in addition is given power to do anything that it may see fit to promote the welfare of the college. This system stands unique among American colleges, so many of which are cursed, as Grinnell used to be, with secret organizations operating on Ku Klux Klan principles. Although the new system is in its infancy it has already met with unanimous approval and the Court has established a high place for itself in the life of Grinnell men.

Do the College Women Like the Dormites?

The Dormitories, it is suspected by some, are even more popular as a subject of Quadrangular conversation than the League of Nations. But to probe beneath these gusts of hot air, and decide what we really think of their occupants—what we think of the Grinnell man in the abstract—that's a difficult matter.

In the first place, we like to think he's a real man—a regular guy! Ames may have its farmers and Iowa its society-folk. Grinnell has its men! The man in Grinnell spends four years in bucking up against the eternal campus triangle—the Quad, the Faculty, and the Administration. And no matter what his original condition of puppyhood may have been, by the time he clutches his hard-earned sheepskin to his beating breast, he has arrived at man's estate, with colors flying. He himself would be the last to deny it!

He's a pretty good sport—not a prig, thank Heaven! — and if he sometimes likes to think himself a bit devilish, we're willing to grin up our sleeves and let him kid himself along. For we know, and we don't mind admitting it on rare occasions, that he's made of good stuff—that the particular niche in the world that waits for him, and his energy and enthusiasm, is likely to be well-filled.

—A QUAD-ITE.

GRINNELL WAS THE 'PIONEER' IN IOWA SPORTS

As a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, Grinnell meets the largest universities in the middle-west on the athletic field each year.

Grinnell College has been rightfully called the "God-mother" of athletics in Iowa. For scores of years her athletic teams have been respected by all, and her early activities have earned for her in inter-collegiate sport the title of the "Pioneers."

Grinnell, (then called Iowa College), played baseball as early as 1873, against the semi-professional teams of the state, and in 1889 introduced the game of football to the state of Iowa, appearing in odds and ends of cast-off clothing far different from the splendid equipment of the modern player. The state title in foot-ball has been held by Grinnell six times, the last time in 1917, gained by defeating Iowa University 10 to 0.

Since the organization of intercollegiate track in Iowa, which was fostered by Grinnell in 1890, she has held the state laurels in track and field competition ten times. The last state title won by a Pioneer team was captured at Des Moines in 1919.

"At the present time," to quote from the Des Moines Register, "Grinnell holds six state meet records, while Ames, her closest competitor, holds four."

The names of "Speedy" Rush, "Doc" Huff, present Grinnell College athletic director, "Chuck" Hoyt, "Lightning" Haas, and Leonard Paulu, stand out in state and national track circles as names to be revered.

Grinnell College held, for nearly ten years running, the title in state basketball circles. She has held the title in that sport eleven times, as well as being runner-up on many occasions.

Grinnell's record in sports would not be complete without some mention of the coaching done by former Scarlet and Black athletes. Among the many who are coaching in the middle-west it is hard to pick a peer. Oskaloosa and Council Bluffs high schools went to the final rounds in the Iowa State championship basketball tournament this year. Oskaloosa is coached by Frank Markley and Leonard Paulu. Markley was an all-state full back, ranking over Locke of Iowa. John Wassenaar, a former Pioneer basketball star, is directing athletics at Council Bluffs. "Fuzz" Watt is doing exceptionally good work at Argentine high school in Kansas City, as is Cress Hoyt, brother to "Chuck", at East Des Moines High school. "Chuck" is handling Sioux City High school's athletics in fine shape, being runner-up for the state foot-ball championship on several occasions. John Van Liew, who has handled athletics for years in East High, Des Moines, and at Champaign, Illinois, has just been appointed Director of Athletics at Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois. J. R. Osgood is track coach at Beloit College, Wisc.

"Doc" Huff, director of athletics at Grinnell, and former Pioneer track star.

MUSIC FACILITIES HERE ARE UNSURPASSED.

Grinnell offers excellent opportunities both to those who would hear the best of music and to those who would participate in it. The musical organizations of Grinnell have always had a high reputation and have always ranked among the best in contests. This reputation was extended when the Grinnell Glee Club joined the Inter-collegiate Glee Clubs Association and contested with eleven other institutions in Chicago last February. In this contest Grinnell was ranked with Wisconsin and Illinois, two of the largest universities of the Middle West, as one of the three best clubs.

But the Glee Club is not the only musical organization of Grinnell which has made a name for itself. The Girls' Glee Club is one of the best choruses of this kind to be found. The String Quartet is of a quality that can be matched by few universities in the country.

In addition to the Quartet there is the College Orchestra of fifty members. This organization gives a concert each year, the program being of the highest type. The Orchestra, and the Vesper Choir, composed of the two Glee Clubs, frequently present some oratorio.

Grinnell is not dependent upon home talent alone for musical entertainment, however. Every year the people of Grinnell are given the opportunity of hearing the best artists of the country through the Recital Course. Mention of a few of the artists who have appeared in Grinnell will show the high quality of these events: the Flonzaley Quartet, Jacques Thibaud, Erica Morini, Pablo Casals, Alberto Salvi, Ignaz Freidman, The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, and, as a conclusion to the musical events of this year, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra gave two concerts in Grinnell.

Many of the faculty are distinguished performers; their appearance in recitals, or at chapel, is always greeted enthusiastically.

Grinnell is the only college in the country—possibly the only college in the world, where students are admitted to concerts and lectures on the same ticket as admit them to the athletic field—the semester coupon, which all students must have.

NOTED ALUMNUS

James Norman Hall, world famous aviator and author. President of Grinnell Alumni Association.

GRINNELL ALUMNI ARE WORLD-FAMOUS.

Grinnell has long been famous for the calibre of the men who come from her, and she is proud to call her own many of the most prominent Americans of today. Among these men who owe something of their success to Grinnell are: Albert Shaw, editor of the American Review of Reviews; James Norman Hall, famous traveler, lecturer, and author; Ex-Senator W. S. Kenyon, now United States circuit judge; the late Jesse Macy, famous political scientist and author; Dr. W. A. Noyes, head of the department of chemistry at the University of Illinois; Dr. S. R. Williams, professor of physics at Oberlin; Dr. James L. Hill, who has been very prominent in Christian Endeavor work for young people; Ex-Senator Charles Rawson; Dr. George E. White, famous missionary, now president of Anatolia College, Turkey, Professor Henry Adams, political scientist and economist; General Palmer E. Pierce, of the American Expeditionary Forces, and Mrs. Mary Grinnell Mears, who has been prominently connected with the National Parent-Teachers' Association. These are only a few. In every city, among the

STUDENT AID AND SCHOLARSHIP.

To assist students who are in need of financial aid, and to create a stimulus for higher scholastic effort, a number of funds have been created to be offered to needy students and to award students who have shown particular ability. There are forty-nine such funds, the interest from which goes to scholarships offered at the recommendation of the scholarship committee. In addition to these there are twenty scholarships offered to high school students, twenty-five alumni merit scholarships, ten upperclass honor scholarships and ten scholarships to ex-service men made possible through the La Verne Noyes fund.

Altogether more than two hundred students at Grinnell are benefitted by these funds.

LIKE TO DRAW?

Grinnell has never been an art school and probably never will be, but this does not alter the fact that there are many opportunities here for people who like to draw.

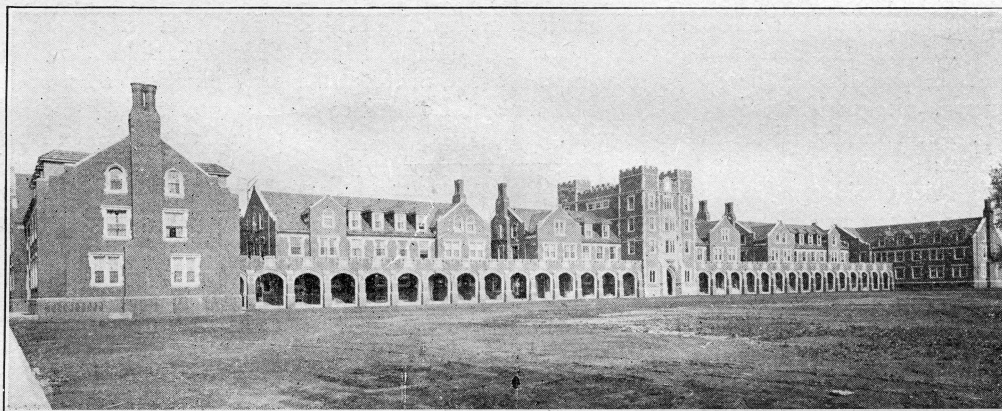

It is only natural for young artists to like to see their works in print; consequently this liberty is taken to convey to those who are interested that Grinnell is a good place in which to develop. Two of our publications, the College Annual and the "Malteaser" both of which are filled to overflowing with art work in all its variations, afford an unusual field for the artist. The opportunities here are on a par with those offered by the large university and the competition is not quite so keen.

If you "draw by ear," as "Ding" calls it, don't let that bother you., for 98% of the younger generation do and the other 2% die in the prime of life. We all like our own stuff and the only thing that we have to contend with is in getting the rest of the world to like it.

Remember—the best thing that Sid Smith ever drew was a ten year contract for 100,000 berries per annum.

leading lawyers, bankers, physicians and business men you will find Grinnell graduates; and in educational work, public schools, colleges and universities, Grinnell men rank with the ablest.

A Glimpse of Our College Homes

The Men's Dormitories, from the southeast. Each building is the home of from thirty to fifty men.

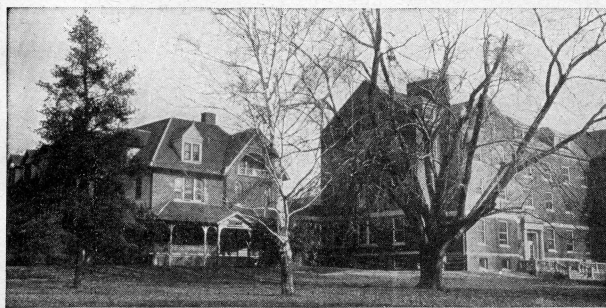

The Grinnell students are banded together through the intimate relationships which life in the Dormitories and the Quadrangle demand. Here each is friend to each, and the spirit of good-fellowship which is developed remains long after the smaller details of college relationships have been forgotten.

The six new dormitory buildings are part of a building scheme which will in time include another group of six buildings and a central hall. Here, too, is true democracy. Each building selects a senior man to head their group, and to act for them on the Men's Senate.

DAILY CHAPEL IS VOLUNTARY.

Chapel attendance at Grinnell is voluntary. Short talks on various problems are given by members of the faculty, and music is a daily feature of the twenty-minute period.

Mersa Cottage and Central Building; the other four buildings of the Quadrangle being situated at the rear of Central. The home of the college women.

The majority of the rooms are made upon occasion. In this way congenial to accommodate two persons, and the groups are developed, while at the same bond of friendship which is formed time the democratic spirit is being fostered between the room-mates at the Dorms is one which lasts a life-time.

The dining room at the Quadrangle is situated in the Central building, and is of magnificent Gothic architecture. Here all of the college girls eat, and on athletic contests promoted by the athletic department, commencing in the fall Sunday many dinner-parties are also and running through the college year served.

The Men's Dining Room is located under Langan Hall, and is composed of four new cottages and a large finished in rough brick, with tile floor. The kitchens are of the finest sanitary type, and the cooks employed turn out many tempting dishes for the students of cloister, the close companionship of the college.

The Quadrangle and the Dormitories are the true homes of Grinnell college days is ripened into lifelong friendship.

Each cottage is headed by a senior men and women; and the friendships formed there are of the type which or aid, and who stands ready to advise cannot be measured in a material sense.

HERE AND THERE WITH GRINNELL PEOPLE

Important elections among the women of the College have resulted as follows: in the W. S. G. L., Marian Read, Shenandoah, president; Eloise Loomis, Ottumwa, vice-president; in the Y. W. C. A., Dorothy Bickel, Vinton, president; Eleanor Gruver, Council Bluffs, vice-president; Jean Platt, Montezuma, secretary; Harriet Rust, Mason City, treasurer. Cap and Gown, the senior women's honor society, has elected Alice Bingham, Estherville, and Margaret Divelbess, Logan, to membership.

Harry L. Brundage, '10, is connected with Bolger, Masser & Willaman, a municipal bond house at 29 So. La Salle St., Chicago.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Eden A. Collins (Joy I. Eddy) at 4155 Prairie Ave., Chicago, a daughter, Aileen Dorothy, March 20, 1923.

Leonard A. Hammes, '18, is located at Omaha, Neb., and associated with the firm of Baldrige & Sexton, 437 Omaha National Bank Bldg., in the practice of law.

Harry Allen, '08, is district representative for the Community Service Inc., which is the outgrowth of the War Camp Community Service which did such excellent work, during the war period. Mr. Allen's business address is 21 N. La Salle St., Chicago. The home address of Mr. and Mrs. Allen (Lillian Palmer) is 7102-34th St., Berwyn, Ill.

H. W. Magoun, '79, is moving into his new home at 80 Hillcrest Road, Belmont, Mass. Mr. Magoun says, "Does it interest you to know that my daughter is a missionary in Japan; one son is an instructor in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and the other, a graduate of Harvard, is completing his preparation for osteopathy? All these children are married, and we have two grandchildren."

Dorothy Garst Chrystal, '10, writes from the Gentry Hotel at Checotah, Okla., asking to have her address corrected and stating that she has had no Grinnell news for some time, and misses it.

Delegates to a district conference of cabinet members of the High School Y. W. C. A. met at Grinnell March 17, and were entertained at tea at the Quadrangle by the social committee of the College Y.

George H. Crosby, father of Sam H. Crosby, '02, and for many years a familiar figure in Grinnell, died at Long Beach, Calif., March 18.

A daughter, Mary Alice, was born to Ernest and Helen Parmelee Welden, '14, on March 21st at Iowa Falls, Iowa.

On April 20th and 21st Professor C. N. Smiley was the guest of the Classical Association of Kansas and Western Missouri, which held its annual meeting at Emporia, Kans. He delivered two addresses before the Association on "The Prometheus Bound of Aeschylus" and "The Monuments of Ancient Rome." He also spoke before the students of the Kansas State Teachers' College on the subject, "Latin as an Integral Part of a Liberal Education."

Rev. Francis C. Ellis, '14, will leave the Green St. Congregational Church of Chicago to become pastor of the Boulevard Congregational Church of Detroit, Michigan, beginning May 22, 1923. Mr. Ellis' address in Detroit will be 1780 W. Grand Blvd., Apt. 28.

The address of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey M. Traver (Maud Cessna) is 1791 Pine St., San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. Denise Welch Holmes, '09, is convalescent after an eight weeks' illness at the Evanston Hospital with mastoiditis. The Holmes' expected to come to Grinnell for the Glee Club concert, but had to postpone their visit until later.

"Parson George," alias Rev. George E. Atkinson, '95, is pastor at Ceres, California. The church has just been celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination.

Born to Mark and Lola Worth Lund, '14, a son, Mark Henry Lund, Jr., on April 17, at Middleton, Ohio.

Two plays, "The Silver Candlesticks," an adaptation from Hugo's "Les Miserables", and "The Garden of Wishes" by Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, were presented by the classes in Dramatic Composition on Monday evening, March 26, at the theater in A. R. H. Each play had a separate cast and a separate staff made up from the members of the class. Stage management, business management, scenery, and lighting effects were largely in the hands of the students of drama. Prior to the public presentation a critic's rehearsal was held which members of the class attended and criticised from the point of view of the audience.

The auditorium was crowded for this performance and the work done by the class received enthusiastic approval. "The Garden of Wishes" has received a great deal of favorable comment elsewhere, and is a charming fantasy of imagination and delicate satire.

Four undergraduates and four associate members have been elected into the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi. The associate members are J. C. Tucker, editor of the Freeman-Tribune, of Webster City, and president of the Iowa Press Association; J. S. Farquhar, editor of the Cedar Rapids Republican and the Marengo Republican; Kenneth Ferguson, '22, editor of the house organ of the Ralston Purina Mills of St. Louis, and H. W. Matlack, '02, of Grinnell.

The undergraduates are: Leslie Moeller of Spencer, Basil Talbott and Paul Porter of Grinnell, and Joseph Rosenfield of Des Moines.

The registrar wishes to thank readers of GRINNELL AND YOU for copies of the catalogue of 1913 and 1914 which have been sent in in response to her request. Miss Simmons says that she could use a few more copies of the 1914 catalog.

Many Grinnell alumni appear on the program of the Central Division meeting of the Iowa State Teachers' Association, held at Des Moines, April 5, 6, and 7; among them A. W. Merrill, Ida Iverson, Jennie Brody, Margaret Cummings, Julia Wheeler, and others. Professors Coffman and Almy are also on the program, Professor Almy as chairman of the executive committee.

THE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER.

Dr. Newton Marshall Hall of Springfield, Mass., has been chosen as commencement speaker and will deliver the commencement address on Tuesday, June 12, 1923.

Dr. Hall is remembered by many alumni as Professor of English at Grinnell from 1891 to 1893. He left Grinnell to become pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Oneta, N. Y., and was called from there to the North Congregational Church of Springfield, Mass., of which he remained pastor for twenty-one years.

Dr. Hall was commissioner from the churches of Christ in America to the churches of Europe in 1920-21 and has held many prominent positions in civic and religious affairs in New England.

THE REUNION OF 1908

Every member of the class of 1908 is expected to be at Grinnell for the Fifteenth Reunion. It will be a fine reunion with all the joy of renewing old friendships. Is there anything more satisfying? So just reserve the dates, June 10-12, and send in your order for a room reservation to

L. D. HARTSON,
Class Secretary.

Charlotte Carson after an interval of three years at home entered the University of Indiana for work in Home Economics. She completed a two year course in a year and a half, graduating at the mid-year and received election to Omicron Nu, an honorary fraternity, just before graduation. The day after Commencement she went to Wellington, Ohio, where she secured a fine position in Home Economics. Her address is 157 Forest Street, Wellington, Ohio.

Mrs. Alice Dunham Hannay, Mrs. Mary Burns Harris, and Miss Caroline Sheldon invite the members of 1893 to breakfast at the Women's Quadrangle, Monday morning, June eleventh, at eight o'clock.

1922 THE INFANT CLASS

This is our first reunion. We have been out in the world one whole year. Let us all get together and see what it did to us.

We want to plan something worthy of the celebration of our first birthday. Write now to one of the committee and tell us that you are coming for sure.

Mrs. Pauline Given Swalm, '71, after spending a number of years in Southampton, England, and Bermuda, where her husband was American Consul, has been at San Francisco since the death of her husband, but expects to return to Iowa within a short time to reside at Des Moines.

Mrs. Swalm has been especially active in organizing branches of the English Speaking Union, and hopes to take an active part in organizing the Iowa state branch of this union. One of the first chapters to be organized in Iowa was the Jesse Macy Chapter at Grinnell, organized last winter.

Gretta Smith, '11, writes as follows: "After much wandering about, the December number of GRINNELL AND YOU has at last reached me. I have enjoyed it so much and would appreciate having the later numbers sent me. I have been connected with the Friends' Relief Mission since last November, and expect to remain here for some six months longer." Miss Smith's address is Friends' Relief Mission, 1 Singerstrasse 16, Vienna.

Mrs. Helen Sayles Brundage, '04, has been in this country for a short time visiting her parents. The Brundages are living at 35 Woodstock Road, Golders Green, London. S. Rhodesia, Africa,
March 6, 1923.

GRINNELL AND YOU is a very welcome visitor even tho the news is six weeks old when it reaches me, traveling by boat, railroad, then one hundred miles by post-cart, and seventy-five miles by native carriers.

The December Bulletin came a short while ago with President Main's front page message, and we who are so far away from Grinnell surely appreciate this message of the Grinnell Spirit. As there is no fellow Alumnus within several thousand miles, I look forward to the coming of the Bulletin and the news of the College and Alumni.

I am located in the Rhodesian Mission of the American Board, with my special charge the Church at Chikore and the work in the out-station schools, nine in number. Last year was one of famine, but now we are having abundant rains and plenty of food, but the prodigal native lives from hand to mouth and will not save for a "dry" day.

I think you have heard of the birth of our daughter, Charlotte Van der Pyl Meacham, July 5, 1922. My wife is Wellesley, 1915, so we cannot agree whether she should be enrolled in the class of 1944 at Wellesley or Grinnell.

Sincerely yours,

FRANK T. MEACHAM.

CLASS OF '98

Will you, each and every member, please write to your secretary as soon as possible and let her know that you will be here in June?

Tell her how many places to reserve for your family at the class breakfast, June 11.
